

Mold and mildew can wreck havoc on your environment. When mold, bacteria or odor affect your indoor air quality, you must take action to protect the health of those in your environment and protect the value of your property. Nico's Restoration can solve your mold problems.

Mold can grow in many places behind a shower wall, in a dark hallway closet, on a bathroom ceiling, in an enclosed laundry room, or under a kitchen sink, anywhere the environment is dark and damp. When these spores are agitated, they become airborne. They can be inhaled, absorbed through the skin, or ingested with food. While some people are not affected negatively, others in the same environment may be affected, especially the very young or the very old. Prolonged exposure may lead to health problems for anyone living or working in this type of environment.

At Nico's Restoration our highest priority is the health and safety of the building occupants. Nico's Restoration will contain the affected area before carefully extracting air and material samples from your building for testing. After testing is completed, our expert technicians will both locate the source of moisture that created the problem and carefully remove and repair all areas affected by mold. Contaminated furniture, appliances or any other internal equipment can be removed from the building, then cleaned and treated to remediate the mold spores. After Nico's Restoration's experts finish their work, you can expect that your home, apartment building, or office will be returned to a safe, pre-mold condition.
